OFFER OF KID M'COY TO HELP REFUSED BY JESS ERICKSON HOLDS CHICAGO

Willard Would Have Benefited by Griffmen Bat Lowdermilk and Dan-Having Crafty Ringman in forth Freely and Opponents' Lone Run Due to Error. Been Held Scoreless. His Corner.

CORBETT CONDEMNS PECORD

"Jess," he said. "I'd like to help you out in your training and act as your chief second in the fight."

The battle lust still is strong within the Kid. Its many years since he fought his last real battle, but his love for the padded ring hasn't faded. And because he wanted to be in some way on the big listic clash he put his proposition to Willard.

"No," answered Willard.
And, afterward, explaining his reason for turning down McCoy, the big Kansan said:

Didn't Know McCoy Well.

Didn't Know McCoy Well. "I didn't want to have a man in my corner that I didn't know."

How vastly different might things be for Willard today had he but accepted the proffered services of one of the shrewdest, craftiest ringmen of all time. McCov undoubtedly couldn't have saved Willard from defeat, but McCov certainly would have saved Willard from a lot of beating.

Can you imagine McCov permitting a man he was seconding go into a fight with an imperfect bell? Can you imagine McCov allowing his man to rise before taking the benefit of "nine?"

And can you imagine McCov as a Will-ABRHE

The fact that the paid admissions ran below $400,000 and the crowd a trifle less than 20,000 stunned the puglistic world, and it must have been a staggering disappointment to Rickard, who had dreams of a $1,000,000 house.

[By Associated Press.] CLEVELAND, July 15.—Cleveland won its eighth game of the season from Boston today, the score being 3 to 1. It was Pitcher Myers' first victory for Cleveland. He kept Boston's seven at least $300.000 to $400.000 more and that at least another $250.000 would come from the sale of the $10 bleacher seats.

But the sale from then on was a "bust," and the great disappointment came in the $10 section, where only $6,000 seats were sold.

Toledoans Didn't Artend.

It was expected that at least $15,000 Toledoans would pay to see the fight, but Toledo was little more than apathetic when it came to paying out real money, and only a few thousand of the home town folks responded to the Rickard call.

Those who contended from the outset that it was a rather dancerous plan to put a man like Oilie Pecord in the refereeing job were right. Pecord served well in local bouts in Toledo, but that wasu't any guarantee that he could handle so important a job as the Williard-Dempsey fight. And Pecord, as many predicted "cracked" at a chilling time.

First of all, Pacord should never have permitted the fight to start until a real bell was in service. Permitting, finally, the use of a whistle, was another blunder. A whistle has no more place in a championship fistic battle than kerosene has in an ice cream media.
